OKLAHOMA HAY MARKET REPORT

11-13-26

Receipts: 4,460 Last Reported: 4,624 Year Ago:2,300

Compared to the last report, demand for hay remains strong. Producers continue moving all types of hay in preparation for fall and winter months. However, hay movement has slowed slightly due to wheat pasture and recent rainfall. Additional rain is in the forecast, which should help improve wheat pasture and grass growth before cooler temperatures arrive.

The Oklahoma Mesonet Drought Monitor indicates that 2.52 percent of the state is experiencing exceptional drought, 22.44 percent is in extreme drought, 67.18 percent is in severe drought, 86.40 percent is in moderate drought, 96.87 percent is in abnormally dry conditions, and 3.13 percent has no drought conditions.

Oklahoma Production Cost Report (Bi-Weekly)
11-13-26

Compared to last report: Overall, fertilizer prices continue to trend upward. However, individual contacts are reporting considerable volatility, with some quoting higher prices while others report declines. One contact reported that their corporate headquarters had told them fertilizer prices would be lower at their location next week. This inconsistency has made it difficult to establish a clear market direction or anticipate near term price movement. Farm diesel prices continue to trend lower, with one contact finally reporting a price just below the $5.00 per gallon mark. Meanwhile, propane prices continue their steady upward climb as winter approaches and seasonal demand begins to increase.

Oklahoma Retail Feed Cost Report (Monthly)
11-13-26

Compared with the last report: Most feed prices have stabilized heading into winter after two months of increases especially in commodity feeds. USDA's November WASDE reported lower projected corn production and ending stocks. CME feeder cattle futures remained volatile, the November contract fell about $15.50 dollars then gained nearly $17.00 this week more than recovering those losses. After following futures lower last week cash cattle markets at area sale barns rebounded this week returning to positive territory.
