PRESS RELEASE

Statement on Muni Operator Sickout

San Francisco—Today, Ed Reiskin, Director of Transportation for the San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency (SFMTA), which oversees all transportation in the city, including the Municipal Railway (Muni), issued the following statement regarding today's operator shortage due to a "sickout."

"I apologize to San Francisco residents and visitors for the severe disruption to today's transit service. We appreciate the patience and perseverance of our customers. We are mobilizing all resources to keep as much service moving as we can.

Muni provides a valued and important service to San Francisco. The great majority of Muni Operators work hard every day to serve the people of San Francisco. They do so well and should be fairly compensated. I appreciate all our employees, both in operations and maintenance, who came in overnight and this morning to keep our system running under very difficult circumstances. The service that they provided today and provide every day is absolutely essential to the economic vitality and quality of life in San Francisco for people who live, work, and visit here.

The management of the SFMTA has negotiated in good faith with the leadership of the Transport Workers Union, Local 250-A. I am disappointed that they followed our mediated proposed agreement with a sickout. We have a process in place to resolve the issues through the arbitration process already underway. We will do everything possible to get our people back to work, and we strongly urge our partners in the union leadership to do the same."

Attached is today's memorandum to all Muni Operators about participation in the sickout. Also attached is the press release outlining this evening's Muni service plan.

Customers are advised to follow us on www.twitter.com/sfmta_muni or sign up for e-mail or text alerts at www.sfmta.com for real-time Muni alerts, 5 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Established by voter proposition in 1999, the SFMTA, a department of the City and County of San Francisco, oversees the Municipal Railway (Muni), parking and traffic, bicycling, walking and taxis. With five modes of transit, Muni has approximately 700,000 passenger boardings each day. Over one million people get around this city each day and rely on the SFMTA to ensure safe and reliable travel by transit, walking, bicycling, taxi and driving.
