Fisherville Farmer's Market in the Works

The Fisherville Area Neighborhood Assoc. Business and Farming committee has been hard at work planning Fisherville's first ever Farmer's Market. The plan is to bring area farmers and gardeners together to sell fresh meat, produce, baked goods, flowers, crafts, etc. promoting local commerce and community. Location and dates have yet to be determined, but they are actively seeking individuals, businesses, and farms interested in selling items at the market.

If you are interested in being a vendor at the Farmer's Market, please send your contact information to Sheila Mead, naturesm@bellsouth.net, or Bert Stocker, bertstocker@bellsouth.net. Interested parties will then be contacted with more details at the appropriate time.

Louisville Visual Arts Association partners with Grasshoppers Distribution and LIBA for 2011 Buy Local First Fair Event at the Water

Tower

The Louisville Visual Arts Association, in conjunction with Grasshoppers Distribution and the Louisville Independent Business Alliance, will host the third annual Buy Local First Fair Sunday, May 22, 2011, from 2-6 pm.

The free admission event will host a variety of local businesses, musicians, artist and craftsmen, breweries, coffee houses, chefs, community organizers, and farmers (more than 100 booths); connecting the patrons of local agriculture and local arts in a celebration of Louisville's vast selection of unique, homegrown agriculture, retail, service industry, and arts and culture offerings.

Events include a concert featuring Woodrow on the Radio, Thomas A Minor and the Picket Line, the Health and Happiness Family Gospel Band, and a performance by Squallis Puppeteers; an Iron Chef competition including the chefs of Mayan Café and Harvest Restaurant; a Grasshoppers Distribution farmers market; a fine art and craft market; a ValuMarket craft beer tent featuring all local breweries; the PNC Bank Kids Activity Terrace; art installations; all local food and beverage vendors; and an exhibition of Children's Fine Art Classes artwork.

This event is part of the Louisville Visual Arts Association's, LIBA's, and Grasshoppers' mission to support the local food movement. The synergy of local artists, craftsmen, and locally produced food is one that is important to both the providers and consumers. It falls in line with the ideals of Louisville's Healthy Hometown Campaign, which includes Mayor Fischer's support of farmers' markets as well as the Farm to Table program which connects regional farmers with Louisville's families and businesses. Recently, in Mayor Fischer's state of the city address, the 1883 Southern Exposition was mentioned as a massing of Louisville's arts and cultural offerings as well as the industry of the day. The mayor calls on the City to "think big and act boldly". This gathering of arts, culture, and food producers is something that LVAA strives to accomplish through the 2011 Buy Local First Fair.

Thank you to our sponsors: Kentucky Proud, LEO Weekly, Louisville.com, Metro Councilwoman Tina Ward-Pugh, PNC Bank, WAKY 103.5, Fresh Start Growers Supply, Preston Arts Center, Limbwalker, and ValuMarket. Attendees should remember the event is cash only. Parking is $5 per car, free for bicycles. Admission is FREE!

For additional information about any aspect of the Buy Local First Fair, contact Education Manager Savannah Barrett at 502-896-2146 or savannah@louisvillevisualart.org. Visit www.louisvillevisualart.org or find the event on Facebook.
