In February 2012 James Helmuth, 9 years old at the time, was diagnosed with a very rare & aggressive cancer, Adrenal Cortical Carcinoma (ACC).

Only 400 cases of ACC are diagnosed in the US each year; extremely few are found in the diseases' early stages — and few medical experts can successfully treat this rare and difficult disease.

James' treatment has involved surgery, 10 months of chemotherapy, possible additional surgery, indefinite additional daily chemotherapy medicines, and travel for expert consultations to ensure a cure.

*Contributions will be shared with the Badger Children's Cancer Network.
