

Supervision of Peer Based Recovery Support Services Through Healing Centered Engagement

Tuesday, July 26th & Wednesday, July 27th, 2022
8:00am – 3:00pm (AKST)
9:00am – 4:00pm (PST)
10:00am – 5:00pm (MST)

Training Description:

This training will help attendees move toward organizational transformation and healing through supportive relationships and supervisory practices. Supervisors have the ability to influence meaningful change that supports organizational wellness. The professional identity of peer staff is rooted in their lived experience and deep connection to personal vulnerabilities. The majority of peers work alongside and are supervised by clinicians and other professionals who may not have the ability to disclose their lived experience, or who do not identify as having lived experience. Often, this can lead to unclear job descriptions, miscommunication, siloing of services, and replication of the harm many peers have experienced in navigating systems of care. Together we will work to deconstruct the “us” and “them” dynamic that has deeply othered peers in the workforce by bringing our attention to the ways all staff experience harm. We will focus on solutions that are found in diverse, equitable, inclusive, accessible, culturally responsive, trauma informed, person centered, empowerment focused, strength-based care. These healing centered solutions inevitably lead all staff to feel seen, accepted, understood, valued, and celebrated! These principles create an organizational culture in which all staff can be their whole selves. Together we will focus on best practices for peer supervision while acknowledging these practices benefit all staff and the support they provide to the community.

Target Audience:

This training is targeted for supervisors, clinicians, providers, administrators, leadership, and all staff who are currently or interested in integrating and supporting peers at their agency. Whether you are currently supervising peers, or preparing to supervise peers, we highly encourage you to participate.

Free of charge. Certificates will be provided upon completion of this virtual training.
