

Small increases now could benefit you later

Boost your retirement readiness with regular contributions and increases.

This table shows how much money a participant could accumulate in their retirement account with regular contributions through 26 biweekly paydays and earnings compounded at an average annual rate of 7%. For example, contributing $100 per pay period would reduce their paycheck by only $88¹ but would add $2,600 to their account each year. After 30 years, they could have accumulated $254,428.

You may be able to increase contributions more than you think. To help you decide, consider using the My Income & Retirement PlannerSM tool and the Paycheck Impact Calculator on the plan website.
