Current Situation: Today, firefighters continued tactical patrols and responded to public calls for service while also constructing and improving containment lines. Increased containment Urban Search and Rescue efforts, infrastructure assessments, hazardous material response, and damage assessment missions continue in the communities along the southern edge of the fire. These missions are unprecedented in size and scale and are critical for mitigating existing hazards, confirming missing persons reports, and obtaining accurate number of structures loss. Stronger winds tonight will contribute to increased fire activity in hidden pockets of heat or residual heat in burned structures.

Recovery Information: <https://recovery.lacounty.gov/eaton-fire/>

Damage Assessment: Aerial imagery overlays show approximately 7,081 structures may have been damaged or destroyed. The number of structures damaged and destroyed listed at the top of the page are verified by damage inspection teams and will be updated with validated information as it becomes available. The current damage inspection reporting is 24% complete for the active fire footprint.

Weather: The fire area will remain under a Red Flag Warning through Wednesday morning. Winds were generally calm this afternoon but will increase again tonight. Relative humidity will remain dry for all elevations, generally below 20%. Offshore flow will persist through early next week, with consistently gusty winds at high elevations along the northern edge of the fire.
