Title	Commission for Behavioral Health – Community Advocacy RFAs

The Commission for Behavioral Health (CBH) released two separate Requests for Application (RFA) for the Community Advocacy Program. The CBH Community Advocacy Program supports people with behavioral health challenges as they advocate for themselves and their communities. Together, their advocacy ensures that behavioral health services and supports accurately reflect community needs, ultimately improving outcomes.

Clients and Consumers Community Advocacy Program

This RFA is designed to ensure that behavioral health clients and consumers, especially those from BHSA priority populations, have their critical needs elevated and addressed within behavioral health systems through advocacy, training and education, and outreach and engagement.

Parents and Caregivers Community Advocacy Program

This RFA is designed to ensure that parents and caregivers of behavioral health clients, especially clients from BHSA priority populations, have their critical needs elevated and addressed within behavioral health systems through advocacy, training and education, and outreach and engagement.
