Officers Pifer and Corbin were on vessel patrol conducting state fisheries inspections at the East Pass/Marler Bridge. The officers performed a fisheries inspection on a vessel returning from the Gulf of Mexico which revealed an undersized king mackerel. The vessel operator was cited and issued a notice to appear.

Officer Corbin assisted a Florida Highway Patrol trooper with a vehicle crash investigation. At some point during the trooper's investigation, the driver of the vehicle escaped from the trooper's vehicle while still handcuffed. Officer Bartlett came to the scene to assist in the search and attempt to apprehend the escaped felon. Just prior to midnight, Officers Corbin and Bartlett located the fleeing felon in a wooded area on the Eglin Wildlife Management Area (WMA). The driver had moved the handcuffs from his back to the front of his body, but the officers un-handcuffed and repositioned the cuff to the back. The driver again attempted to escape by trying to pull away and kicking at the officers. The driver was eventually placed in the prisoner cage in the back of the FWC patrol truck.

Officer Nichols was conducting off-road patrol on Roberts Pond Unit in the Eglin WMA and conducted a traffic stop on a white truck to verify the occupants had valid Eglin Recreation Permits. While making contact with the driver, Officer Nichols observed approximately 11 bags of harvested saw palmetto berries in the bed of the truck. He asked the occupants for their identification and Eglin Recreation Permits and they stated they did not have any permits and provided their identification. The harvest of saw palmetto berries season is closed. Officer Nichols requested Eglin Range Patrol to assist. Investigator Armstrong, Officers P. Rockwell and Maltais also arrived on scene to assist. The fisheries inspection revealed the vessel operator failed to declare weight on all species under the Individual Fishing Quote Program (IFQ). The operator and crewman were run through the NCIC and FCIC, and the Tallahassee Regional Communication Center (TRCC) confirmed the operator had an active warrant for violation of probation. The operator was arrested and an Okaloosa County Sheriff's Deputy transported him to the Okaloosa County Jail.

LEE COUNTY

Officer Price, Investigator Ruggiero and Lieutenant Ruggiero responded to an alligator attack call. The victim said she had been bitten on the hand after reaching under her car to pick up something when she arrived at work early in the morning. Officer Price responded to the hospital to interview the woman who had noticeable puncture holes in the palm of her hand. During the initial interview, the woman said she didn't know what bit her. All three officers investigated the location of the incident to look for evidence of what may have happened. The officers located the woman's vehicle and found a bag of dog food in the passenger's seat. They followed a blood trail over to a wooded area where they located several raccoons, which had obviously lost all fear of humans. One of the raccoons walked right up to Officer Price and touched his boot. At the end of the blood trail, approximately 50 yards from the woman's vehicle, was the woman's bracelet which had broken off and was laying on the ground. There was water nearby and an alligator as well, but the alligator didn't show any signs of being fed. Based on the evidence, the officers believed the woman may have been feeding the raccoons when she got bit. They returned to the hospital to do a follow-up interview with the woman, to ask about the blood trail, bracelet and dog food. The woman was adamant that she got bit at her vehicle and kicked the animal off of her. However, she couldn't positively identify what bit her. She stated that after she got bit she washed her wound in a puddle of water in the parking lot. As she was washing her hand in the puddle, she heard a noise in the bushes and went over to investigate it. That's why her blood trail went over to that area. As for the bracelet, she said she had lost it a few days earlier but didn't bother looking for it because it was cheap. Based on the appearance of the wounds and the raccoons in the area, the investigation determined it was not an alligator attack but most likely a raccoon bite. The owner of the property hired a trapper and is having the raccoons removed.

Officers Barringer and White conducted a vessel stop in Dollar Bay for violations with a personal watercraft and performed a boating safety inspection. During the inspection, the officers observed several indicators of impairment including slurred speech, lack of coordination, and the odor of an alcoholic substance coming from the operator. After completing the vessel safety inspection, the officers asked the operator to perform field sobriety tasks. The operator consented to the field sobriety tasks and, upon completion, was placed under arrest for BUI. The operator was transported to the Collier County Jail.

Three officers were on water patrol in Biscayne Bay when they stopped a vessel to conduct a fisheries inspection. Two of the four male subjects on board claimed to have been spearfishing and produced legally speared fish that were stored in a cooler. However, after further investigation, one of the officers discovered a bag of lobster tails and two, live queen conchs hidden in a compartment. The bag contained thirty-one lobster tails of which twenty-two were undersized and one was egg-bearing. One subject was arrested and taken to jail for multiple violations.

Officers were on patrol at Black Point Marina when they conducted a fisheries inspection of occupants on a vessel that had returned to the dock. The officers discovered eight speared parrotfish and a speared, undersized hogfish on board. One subject was cited for the violations.

Officers were on water patrol east of Government Cut when they observed a subject fishing from an anchored vessel. The officers stopped to conduct a fisheries inspection and discovered that the subject was in possession of five undersized yellowtail snapper. He was cited for the violation and received a ticket and warnings for boating safety equipment infractions.

Officer Reynaud conducted a short surveillance on an individual selling lobster out of his car in a shopping center parking lot. He confronted the subject and conducted a fisheries inspection which revealed he was in possession of 33 lobster in two coolers and selling with no retail SPL. K-9 Officer Martir and K-9 Mag provided assistance in the search. The subject was cited accordingly.

MONROE COUNTY

Officers Schroth and LaRosa responded to a report of lobster poaching activity in progress in Little Angelfish Creek within the Card Sound Lobster Sanctuary. Resource Protection Officers Rodriguez and Diaz from Dade County also responded. The officers searched the many creeks in the area when they located a black, 17-foot vessel with two men on board. When the officers activated their emergency blue lights, the vessel did a 180-degree turn and fled. The officers quickly caught up to the vessel and once it was stopped, they observed one occupant go to the bow of the vessel and dump a large bucket of live lobster overboard into the water, disregarding the officers' orders to put the bucket down and not to discard the product. Officers boarded the suspect vessel and placed both of the subjects in handcuffs. Officer LaRosa immediately dove into the water with a mask and snorkel to try and retrieve the product and observed dozens of live lobsters in a large group on the sea floor. The subjects, who were brothers, were arrested and transported to Monroe County Jail and their vessel was seized for possible forfeiture due to their prior history of conservation violations. Both subjects were charged with Illegal to Molest, Harvest Spiny Lobster in Card Sound Lobster Sanctuary, and one was also charged with Interference with an FWC Officer.

Resource Protection Officers Garrison and Munkelt were at a boat ramp in Marathon observing people loading their boats. They noticed occupants next to a vessel de-vein lobster tails, put them in a cooler in their vehicle and then grab new tanks to return to the water in their boat. Officers Garrison and Munkelt alerted two nearby uniformed officers of the possible multi-tripping and left the scene. Officers Wagner and Rubenstein waited at the boat ramp hiding behind a wall until the vessel came back. The officers conducted a resource inspection on the vessel when it came back and found 14 lobster on board, 4 undersized. An inspection of their cooler in the vehicle found 11 more wrung lobster tails, 2 undersized. The total number of lobster put the four occupants over their bag limit. At the end of the inspection, two criminal citations were issued for over the bag limit and undersized lobster.

Officers Johnson, Richards and Foell were on JEA patrol aboard the 12-meter Interceptor in the Lower Keys. The officers observed a commercial spiny lobster vessel actively pulling lobster traps along the reef line west of Key West. Officers Foell and Richards boarded the vessel to conduct a fisheries inspection. During their inspection, the officers located a dead, egg-bearing spiny lobster inside a cooler. Upon further inspection of the lobster vessel, the officers located two more egg-bearing lobsters in the live-well, making a total of three on board. The commercial aerial display of the buoy color and number located on the roof of the vessel were under the legal minimum size. A criminal notice to appear citation was issued accordingly.

Officers Plussa, Foell, Munkelt, Steinmetz and Lieutenant Robison provided public safety support for the Monroe County Sheriff's Office on a search and recovery mission to find a missing person. Monroe County Sheriff's Office (MCSO) Patrol, Marine, and Investigations units, Federal Rangers with the US Fish and Wildlife Service, members of the Monroe County Fire Rescue all assisted in this wilderness man-tracking search of a portion of the Key Deer National Wildlife Refuge on Big Pine and No Name Keys. They concluded their efforts after an all-day effort of more than 28 hours in total, searching by boat, truck, foot, ATV and with the use of multiple K-9 units. The case has been turned over to MCSO's major crimes and special operations unit as a suspicious missing person incident. The investigation is ongoing.

Officer Plussa and Lieutenant Robison were conducting water patrol bayside of Marathon in conjunction with an ongoing derelict vessel operation. Officer Plussa had observed a subject on board a known abandoned and believed derelict vessel that had been the focus of a recent investigation. An inspection of the vessel and the motor skiff moored to it determined that both unnumbered vessels belonged to the subject and that he had failed to register or title both in his name, despite being warned for this same violation with these vessels in November 2011 and that he had taken no action on to rectify. The marine toilet on board the vessel below deck was later found to be unsecured in a way that sewage could be pumped overboard, and Officer Plussa observed the engine compartment flooding along with the lavatory. The subject stated that the vessel has no power and cannot sustain its own bilge pumps. Because of the substantial growth on the sides and hull of the vessel, the inoperable motor and bilge pump, the inoperable rudder, and the fact that it was in junked and abandoned condition, Officer Plussa charged him with operating and storing a derelict vessel on state waters. Due to the subject's substantial criminal history, including three prior failures to appear in Florida, he was arrested on a total of seven misdemeanor charges including derelict vessel, failure to transfer title on both vessels, failure to transfer registration on both vessels, operating an untitled vessel, buying an untitled vessel, operating a vessel with no HIN number, and eight civil boating citations relating to registration display, status, and the marine sanitation toilet device. He was booked into the Marathon Jail without incident. His vessel will be marked, seized and removed from state waters within 30 days if he fails to bring it into compliance.

Officer Baumgartner was driving southbound over the Channel Five Bridge in the Upper Keys when she noticed an individual in the water without a dive flag displayed. She parked the patrol truck on the opposite side of the road and tucked herself in along the embankment to observe the individual. She was able to identify the individual actively engaged in spearfishing with a mangrove snapper and hogfish still attached to the shoot line. The individual was also in possession of another speared mangrove snapper and a Cubera snapper after checking his catch bag. The individual was charged accordingly.

Officer Plussa, Investigator Cox, and MCSO Deputy Hager completed the first two phases of their county-wide derelict vessel sting operation, focusing on Marathon's Boot Key Harbor and Key West Harbor. A total of 25 targeted vessels were inspected during this operation, with Investigator Cox marking 17 as derelict that now sit in que for removal from state waters. A total of 7 suspects were physically arrested with 6 arrest warrants pending for additional violators. A total of one felony and 52 misdemeanor charges were issued, and an additional 67 civil boating citations were issued by Officer Plussa during the high-volume sting portion of the operation. The detail was a major success due to use of the Intelligence Lead Policing Model recently adopted by coordinating officers. Lieutenant Robison routinely assisted in the operation, and Resource Protection Officers Munkelt and Garrison provided plain-clothes surveillance during the sting. Additional phases of this derelict vessel operation are being planned, focusing law enforcement efforts in different locations throughout the Florida Keys targeting derelict vessels.

Officers Munkelt and Garrison were on water patrol bayside of MM 60 when they observed 3 individuals in the water. Officer Munkelt operated the patrol vessel while Officer Garrison watched the individuals with stabilizing binoculars. While watching the 3 individuals, the officers could see that one was using an orange pole spear in the rocks next to shore. The officers then conducted a resource inspection on the individuals. Upon inspection, the individual with the pole spear was in possession of two spiny lobster and Officer Munkelt noticed a third spiny lobster in the water. Upon inspection of a bucket onshore, they found a fourth spiny lobster. Three of the lobster were undersized and three showed signs of being speared. After reading Miranda, the individual with the pole spear admitted to harvesting the lobster. The individual was placed under arrest and transported to the MCSO Jail in Marathon by Officer Plussa. He was charged with harvesting undersized spiny lobster and harvesting lobster by illegal method.

In April 2015, Officers Swensson and Sutter filed warrants for two subjects regarding resource violations they discovered after a stop on a vessel. Both subjects were picked up on the warrants. On September 1, 2016, one of the subjects went to trial for the violations - possession of lobster during closed season, possession of undersized lobster, possession of wrung tails on the water, molesting, taking or trapping spiny lobster in Card Sound Lobster Sanctuary and possession of undersized stone crab claws. The jury found the subject guilty on all charges and sentenced to 240 days in Monroe County Jail as well as additional probation and fines. The second subject has another warrant out for his arrest.

The Good Samaritan and Officer Baumgartner were able to get the dolphin safely relocated to Sea Base Islamorada. Once there, four employees also assisted in helping to keep the distressed dolphin safely afloat. The dolphin was transferred to the Dolphin's Plus Center for treatment and recovery. Ten other dolphins had also been taken there after being stranded due to Tropical Storm Hermine's development in the Gulf of Mexico.

DIRECTED CONSERVATION PATROLS

COLLIER COUNTY

Due to the Labor Day holiday, a very high visitation level was expected at Delnor-Wiggins Pass State Park. The FWC provided the law enforcement presence to maintain public safety and enforce violations that had been observed in previous years during the holiday weekend. Lieutenant Mahoney and Officers Barringer, Osorio-Borja and Tidwell also focused on enforcement of boating safety violations in the area around the park. The officers wrote 29 warnings and issued 20 citations for operation of a personal watercraft or other watercraft in closed areas, consumption of alcoholic beverages, and other violations observed throughout the holiday weekend. One citation was issued for BUI.

COMMUNITY ORIENTED POLICING

MONROE COUNTY

Lieutenant Robison, Recruiting Officer Steinmetz, and Officer Plussa participated in an outreach and recruiting event at the 2016 Heroes Salute weekend at Hawks Cay Resort. This event was created to support law enforcement, fire rescue, and public safety officers within the community. This event lasted throughout the Labor Day weekend with hundreds of attendees participating in the 5K run, BBQ, and interactive exhibits from local agencies. Members of the Monroe County Sheriff's Office marine unit, dive unit, and bomb squad, the Florida Highway Patrol, and Monroe County Fire Rescue also participated. The FWC officers received much attention while allowing children and families to hold different animals and interact with multiple snakes, turtles, alligators, and a few other Florida critters. The event was a major success overall with hundreds of interactive citizen encounters and dozens of youth developing and voicing their aspirations to someday become FWC officers.
