

Commission on Improving the Status of Children in Indiana

Children's Commission Update

August 29, 2022

At its meeting last Wednesday, the Children's Commission voted to support the implementation of three evidence-based violence prevention and intervention program models in Indiana, and to seek opportunities to help fund such efforts. After an 18-month study, the Commission's juvenile violence subcommittee recommended endorsement of Cure Violence, Project BUILD, and Credible Messengers for Justice Involved Youth.

The Commission also approved its annual report, which details results from the most recent fiscal year in the areas of family & youth engagement, youth justice reform, youth mental health, and data sharing.

Review meeting materials and watch the meeting video on the August meeting page.

The Commission's next meeting is scheduled to take place on Wednesday, October 19, 2022, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Indiana State Library, History Reference Room. As always, live streaming will be available.
