Domo Recognizes Kansas Sentencing Commission Executive Director Scott Schultz with the 2024 Ovation Award for Most Innovative Business App

Topeka, Kansas (March 28, 2024) – Domo, a cloud-based data management platform company, announced that Scott Schultz, Executive Director of the Kansas Sentencing Commission, has been named the recipient of Domo's 2024 Community Ovation Award for Most Innovative Business App.

The Domo Ovation Awards recognize customers who leverage Domo's platform to achieve outstanding results. Mr. Schultz was selected for his innovative implementation of a Domo-powered application that will significantly improve the efficiency and effectiveness of the Kansas Sentencing Commission's data analysis capabilities.

“I am thrilled to be honored with this prestigious award,” said Schultz. “My vision for our agency in utilizing Domo to create a cutting-edge data management solution is a true testament to the power of Domo’s platform. KSSC research staff Jason Lamprecht and John Grube have been the primary contributors to our success in developing and testing the electronic journal entry app. Pilot study feedback drives our team to make this initiative provide the highest level of benefit to our stakeholders. Our innovative approach will hopefully serve as an inspiration to other government and private organizations seeking to leverage data to drive meaningful change.”

About Kansas Sentencing Commission

The KSSC is a state agency that vitally contributes to the Kansas justice system by ensuring fair and effective felony sentencing practices. Its mission includes developing methods to evaluate sentencing guidelines, analyzing their impact on prison populations, and advising policymakers with criminal justice data. The KSSC's philosophy is criminal sentences should be imposed fairly, rationally, and consistently and that incarceration should be reserved for the most serious offenders.
