

William G. Milliken State Park & Harbor and The Globe Building

Milliken on the Move

Welcome to William G. Milliken State Park & Harbor along Detroit's river front, the city's emerging recreation destination, nestled at the intersection of 20 miles of premier urban trail. One of Michigan's newest—and only urban—state parks, it is poised to be the catalyst for multi-use development in downtown Detroit. Activity and learning centers are planned within the park, but we need your help.

The Globe Opportunity

In 2011, a unique opportunity was born when the Natural Resources Trust Fund donated substantially to the renovation of the Globe Building—the 100,000-foot, iconic structure along Detroit's river front—for the creation of an indoor introduction to Michigan's outdoors. With experiences in everything from archery to ziplining, this will certainly become a base camp for residents and visitors seeking a destination for fun and fitness. Many hands-on learning initiatives are planned for inclusion in the 45,000-foot Outdoor Adventure and Discovery Center within the building. Your support is very much needed.

Your Support Will Make it All Happen

With your support, William G. Milliken State Park & Harbor and the Globe Building will continue to grow its recreational and educational opportunities. By supporting these important initiatives, you're supporting Detroit, creating a "Gateway" experience to Michigan's State Parks, helping to connect Detroit's riverfront parks and adjacent neighborhoods, introducing the local community to the opportunities for conservation careers and so much more.

Next Steps

Partnerships, sponsorships and individual donation opportunities are available for William G. Milliken State Park & Harbor's activity stations and the Globe Building's hands-on Outdoor Adventure and Discovery Center.
