Troy Police Patrol During “Stay Home” Order

Police Calls for Service Down Overall

Since Michigan’s Stay Home, Stay Safe order has been in place, the Troy Police Department has noted a drop in requests for police service overall.

As of April 13, the Troy Police Department has handled 694 calls for service for the month. In April 2019, Troy officers handled a total of 3499 calls for service.

The Troy Police Department handled a total of 2688 calls for service in March 2020 and 4207 in March 2019, representing a nearly 36 percent drop.

Car crash reports are also down in Troy. So far this month, officers have investigated 18 car crashes. Officers investigated 155 car crashes in March 2020 as opposed to 354 in March 2019.

Since March 23, the Troy Police Department has received 76 calls for possible violations of the Governor’s Executive Order. Overall, the Troy Police Department has had success in using a voluntary compliance approach to enforcement of Michigan’s “stay home” order.

Citizens should know that despite the drop in requests for police service, Troy officers are still patrolling the city and addressing public safety concerns. The Department has implemented a number of measures to reduce non-essential contact between officers and members of the public, including increased use of online and telephonic reporting.
