Millennium Health Signals Report™ Volume 3 - The COVID-19 Connection: Tracking 2020 Trends in Drug Use

The COVID-19 pandemic has broad impacts on public health and has been implicated in rising drug overdose deaths. Pandemic related stressors may also increase substance use in general. Millennium Health is uniquely positioned to identify trends in drug use through its proprietary database of urine drug testing (UDT) results. This program identifies national, regional, and state trends in positivity rates for select drugs through December 2020, including an examination of drug use trends after the COVID-19 pandemic was declared a national emergency.

Kelly Olson, PhD

Kelly Olson is the Associate Director of Clinical Affairs at Millennium Health. She is an experienced researcher in molecular neuropharmacology, as well as in clinical biology in the areas of mental illness, sleep, adrenal fatigue, and addictions. Dr. Olson has authored/co-authored a number of peer-reviewed articles, book chapters, and presentations, and has lectured extensively internationally, nationally, and locally. Dr. Olson has spent the majority of the past 9 years in integrative medicine, helping to improve patient clinical outcomes. She received her Masters of Science in exercise physiology from the University of North Dakota, and her PhD in pharmacology & therapeutics from the University of Manitoba.
