Proposal format

The application documents must be submitted as one PDF. Your application must detail the names of the organization and project lead applying; the applicant's location and contact information; and answers to application questions. Proposals should contain the following sections and appendices and be arranged in consecutive order to allow for easier comparison of proposals during evaluation.

A. Cover sheet

Complete the proposal cover sheet (Attachment B), including contact information and Unique Entity ID (UEI) number. If you do not have a UEI number, you will need to obtain one from SAM.GOV (<https://sam.gov/content/entity-registration>).

B. Project narrative questions

The project narrative should be no more than four (4) pages in 12-point font, single spaced, with one-inch margins, not including images or charts. The proposal cover sheet, budget, and financial information will not be counted toward the page limit.

The project narrative questions that should be answered are included as Attachment C – Project Narrative Questions.

C. Budget

A budget template is included as Attachment D – Project Budget. Use of the provided budget template is optional. If you choose to use your own format, please ensure it includes sufficient detail, including:

- Individual line items for each type of expense
- Calculations for requested amounts

You should include a budget narrative to ensure that your budget includes the necessary amount of detail. A budget narrative template is included in Attachment D. If a budget narrative is not included, points will be deducted.

D. Applicant Financial Information

Proof of financial responsibility, any bankruptcy filings by the consultant, its principles and officers during the previous seven years. Provide this proof in one of the following formats:

- Most recent high level audit report
- Current 990
- Board approved financial statements

If adding financial documents makes the pdf too large, they may be submitted as separate documents.

Submission of financial information is mandatory for consideration of proposals. Failure to include the required financial documentation will result in the application being marked as unresponsive.

VII. Proposal review process

Proposals will be reviewed by an evaluation team made up of City of Minneapolis staff and external community reviewers. Their scoring will be guided using the evaluation rubric found in Attachment E.

Evaluation of proposals will be based on the information requested, including:

- Why organization is interested in integration of trauma informed principles into policies and procedures
- Organizational commitment
- Project sustainability
- Budget and financial information

Evaluation may also incorporate quality, thoroughness, and clarity of proposal.

At any time during the process, MHD may elect to contact applicant agencies with requests for clarification, an interview with agency personnel, or a presentation on the proposed project to aid in the selection process, or other items or information.

The recommendation(s) of the external reviewers will be considered by MHD staff. Final selections will consider the criteria listed above, as well as community served.

Following that, selections will be submitted to the Minnesota Department of Health (grant funder) and Minneapolis City Council for final approval to enter contracts. Application rating and/or an initial recommendation for funding will not necessarily guarantee funding.

VIII. Contract

The contracting parties will be the City of Minneapolis and the Consultant(s) selected to provide the services as described herein. The selected proposal(s), along with the RFP and any counter proposal(s) will be incorporated into a formal agreement(s) after negotiations. It is the intent of the City to award a contract(s) for a term ending September 30, 2025.

The contract for services with the Consultant selected under this RFP may be extended for up to two (2) years following the initial performance period. Any extension of the contract will be contingent upon availability of funding and on Consultant performance during the initial year. Contract extension is at the sole option of the City. The City may also choose to explore partnering with the contracted agency to seek outside funding sources for sustainability beyond the initial contract period.

IX. Rejection of proposals

The City does not promise to accept the lowest cost proposal and specifically reserves the right to reject any or all proposals, to waive any formal proposal requirements, to investigate the qualifications and experience of any vendor, to reject any provisions in any proposal, to obtain new proposals, to negotiate the requested services and contract terms with any vendor, or to proceed to do the work otherwise. Incomplete proposals and proposals not sufficiently detailed or not in acceptable form may be returned for completion or may be rejected by the City.

X. Addenda to the RFP/supplemental information

If any addendum is issued for the RFP, it will be posted as an attachment to the RFP package in the eSupplier portal. The City reserves the right to cancel or amend the RFP at any time.

XI. Data practices

Data provided in response to this RFP will be subject to the Minnesota Government Data Practices Act and may be available to the public. Minn. Scope of Services:

Building trauma informed principles into policies and procedures

Background

This request for proposals (RFP) solicits projects that will build trauma-informed principles into the settings of health care, workplace, schools and other institutions. Building a trauma-informed or responsive approach means providing individuals or staff with knowledge of the impact of trauma and aims to ensure environments and services are welcoming and engaging for both staff and the communities organizations serve. This work supports the City of Minneapolis' commitment to addressing the impact of racism on the wellbeing of residents and the city overall, as identified in the City Council resolution declaring racism as a public health emergency.

Trauma informed care is based on growing knowledge about the negative impact of psychological trauma. Trauma is common in society. Institutions, such as schools, healthcare, government and others, can unknowingly retraumatize the individuals or communities they serve, affecting their willingness to participate and engage. Being trauma-informed considers the ways in which trauma impacts staff and individuals with whom organizations are working. Using trauma-informed principles, individuals and organizations can be more effective in relationships with colleagues, clients, community partners and in their personal lives.¹ (See Attachment F – Definitions and Resources for the six common Trauma Informed Principles). Better relationships can lead to better service provision and improved overall wellbeing for staff and clients.

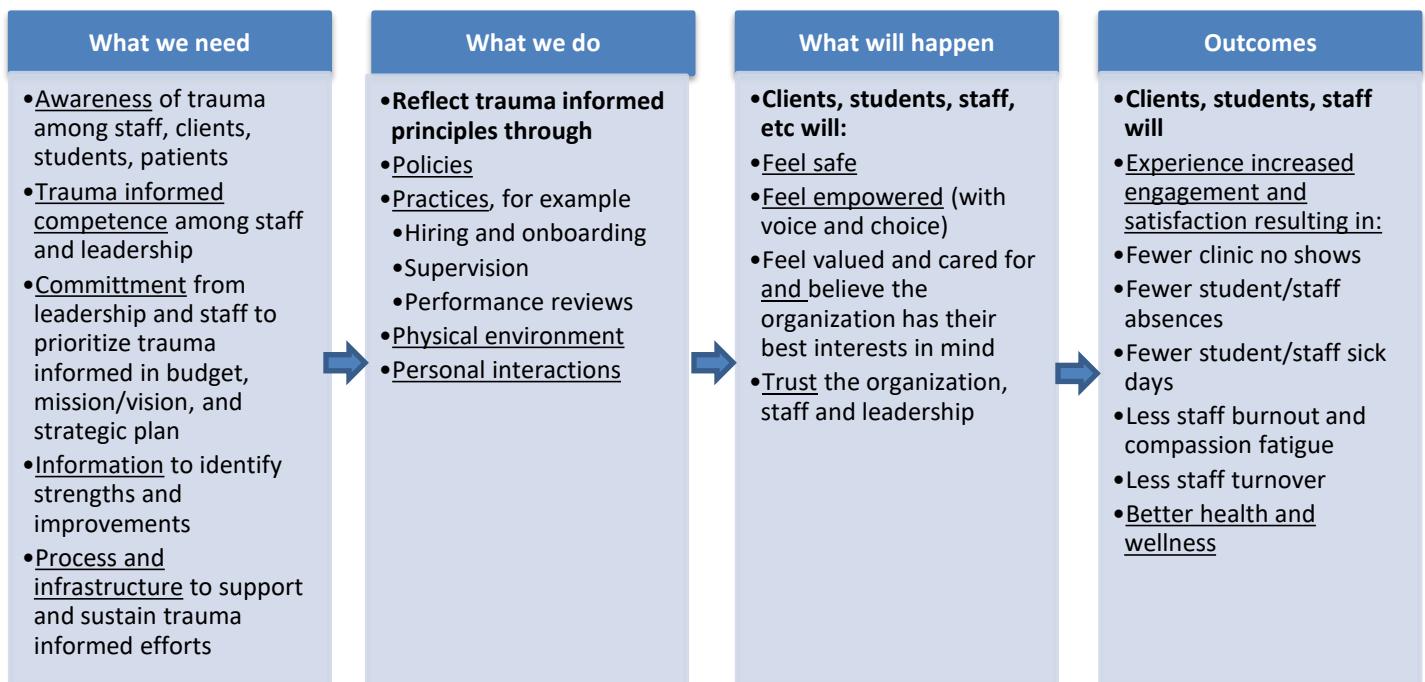

There are several best practices organizations need to be successful in the process of building trauma awareness and becoming trauma informed. These include:

- Awareness of trauma among staff, clients, students, patients, etc.
- Trauma informed competence among staff and leadership
- Commitment from leadership and staff to prioritize trauma informed principles in budget, mission/vision, strategic plan, policies, procedures, etc.
- Information to identify strengths and opportunities for improvement (assessment)
- Process and infrastructure to support and sustain trauma informed efforts.²

Policy, Systems, and Environmental Change Approach to Public Health (from the Public Health Law Center: Level setting on policy, systems, and environmental change. Available online:

<https://www.publichealthlawcenter.org/webinar/mn-level-setting-policy-systems-and-environment-change>)

Policies, systems, and environments (PSE) influence and drive people's decisions and behaviors in fundamental ways that can lead to better or worse health outcomes. They can encourage, discourage, or drive decisions and behaviors of people and organizations. Proposed projects for this RFP should work towards a policy, systems and/or environmental change to improve community wellbeing.

- Policies are laws, ordinances, resolutions, mandates, regulations, organizational guidelines, rules or practices. They are:
 - In writing
 - Expected to be followed by people and organizations
 - Enforceable beyond relying on social and cultural norms
- Systems are processes, procedures, relationships, and power structures in a community or organization; they are the way organizations and communities operate or do their work. (The way things are “typically done”)
- Environments are the settings and spaces within which organizations operate, and within which people live, work, study, play and pray. They can be:
 - Tangible (physical structures, “the built environment)
 - Intangible (for example, having cultural, social, or economic dynamics)

Six Trauma Informed Principles (from the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMSHA). Explanations from Trauma effective organization: 6 trauma informed care principles, University of Minnesota.)

1. Safety: Feeling safe decreases a person's sense of threat and allows them to thrive. In a trauma informed organization, safety means that throughout the organization, staff and the people they serve feel physically and psychologically safe.
2. Trustworthiness & transparency: Organizational operations and decisions are conducted with transparency and the goal of building and maintaining trust among staff, clients, and family members of those receiving services.
3. Peer support: These are integral to the organizational and service delivery approach and are understood as a key vehicle for building trust, establishing safety, and empowerment
4. Collaboration & mutuality: There is true partnering and leveling of power differences between staff and clients and among organizational staff from direct care staff to administrators. There is recognition that healing happens in relationships and in the meaningful sharing of power and decision-making. The organization recognizes that everyone has a role to play in a trauma-informed approach. One does not have to be a therapist to be therapeutic.
5. Empowerment & choice: Throughout the organization and among the clients served, individuals' strengths are recognized, built on, and validated and new skills developed as necessary. The organization aims to strengthen the staff's, clients', and family members' experience of choice and recognize that every person's experience is unique and requires an individualized approach. This includes a belief in resilience and in the ability of individuals, organizations, and communities to heal and promote recovery from trauma. This builds on what clients, staff, and communities have to offer, rather than responding to perceived deficits.

6. Cultural, historical & gender issues: The organization actively moves past cultural stereotypes and biases (e.g., based on race, ethnicity, sexual orientation, age, geography), offers gender responsive services, leverages the healing value of traditional cultural connections, and recognizes and addresses historical trauma.

The Consultant shall provide bulk extracts that meet the public release criteria for use in and within an open data solution. The Consultant shall permit and allow free access to City information and Data Sets by using a method that is automatic and repeatable. The Data Sets shall permit classification at the field level in order to exclude certain data.
