

The National Education Equity Lab is excited to announce

North Carolina Title I High Schools have been nominated to participate in College-in-High School credit-bearing courses taught by top colleges and universities!!!

Thursday, October 6th at 10:00 a.m. EDT

Thursday, October 6th at 1:00 p.m. EDT

Please click one of the links above to RSVP to attend one of the session times.

The National Education Equity Lab is an education justice non-profit that aims to democratize access to college by partnering with top colleges and universities to offer actual college credit-bearing courses in teacher-led Title 1 high school classrooms, in selected high schools across the country. Scholars gain the opportunity to take actual college courses from top professors, with weekly university teaching fellow live sections, co-taught by teachers at their high schools. Scholars earn 3-widely transferable college credits and a transcript from the offering institution upon successful completion.

Starting in 2019 with a single Harvard humanities course in 25 high schools, we are currently in 32 states, 90 cities and will have served 10,000 students by the end of 2022.

Warm regards,

The National Education Equity Lab Team
