WORLD HISTORY WEBINAR SERIES Historical Journey's Around the World

Throughout the 2023-24 school year, NCDPI Social Studies will host a World History Webinar Series entitled Historical Journey's Around the World: Busting Myths & Building Knowledge in 6,7, and World History Classrooms! The series will be offered in five 2-hour virtual sessions on topics and aspects in World History in which teachers may have little to no background. Each session will feature a unique presentation on a topic or area of world study that may not typically be taught. Save the dates on your calendar NOW, register to attend, and prepare to enhance your existing instructional plans, resources, content knowledge, and pedagogy for teaching topics in World History. Each session will take place from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Webinar Session #1

Tuesday, September 19 – 4:00 pm - 6:00 pm EST

World History Primary Sources: Inquiring Minds Want to Know

Special guest presenter Gretchyn Bedard (High School Classroom Teacher, Iredell Statesville Schools).

Do you often find it challenging to find good primary source materials to use when teaching topics in World History? If so, this is the session for you. World history teachers will be introduced to the NEW NCDPI Chronological Documents for World History. This document provides teachers with examples of primary sources that align to the NC objectives. Gretchyn, who was one of the primary architects of this document, will introduce teachers to some of the best ways to use this resource to find material appropriate for multiple topics in World History. Using various example World History topics, Gretchyn will take participants through several engaging activities she uses in her classroom, that are sure to engage students and help integrate inquiry and the use of inquiry-related historical thinking skills. Those attending will leave with multiple primary resource examples that can be used in your next lessons.
