How to Teach the Historical Skill of Continuity & Change Over Time

FEBRUARY 6, 4PM TO 5:30 PM

SESSION DESCRIPTION

#4 of 6 Teaching Historical Skills PD Sessions

CEUs Awarded for Each Session Attended.

A CEU Certificate for the Total Number of Hours Attended After the Final Session in April.

Teaching content can be hard. Teaching skills can be even harder! How can teachers help students recognize the shifts as well as the constants that present themselves as they explore and learn about world history? Identifying and understanding the significance of continuities and changes over time is something students must be able to do if they are going to meaningfully compare the same location, idea, or historical process over a period of time. So what are some of the proven best methods for helping them to be able to do so? OER Project and NCDPI K-12 Social Studies will present a session on teaching Continuity and Change Over Time (CCOT). During this session, educators will engage in examining the concept of continuity and change over time and participate in techniques for engaging their learners.

This session is shaping up to be one you do not want to miss.
