

Introduction to Predictive Maintenance & Machinery Health

Tuesday, October 1, 2013

Yorktown Fire House, Yorktown Heights, NY

8:30 a.m. – 3:30 p.m. Sign-in begins at 8:00 a.m.

New, innovative technologies are being applied to pumps and other mechanical equipment used in water and wastewater treatment plants. These new systems allow operators to conduct infrared electrical imaging and lubrication analysis and to take initial baseline readings for vibration. The systems also allow for the monitoring of a piece of equipment throughout its life cycle.

This one-day course is intended for those who operate or maintain pumps, electrical equipment, and other process machinery. Case studies and equipment demonstrations will be presented.

Lunch will be provided by Motion Industries.

Instructor: Jay Bradford, Motion Industries & Don Kennedy, NEIWPC

Cost: $120 (lunch included)

Credits: 6 Training Contact Hours
