LOVE SONG THAT'S ALL ABOUT YOU

By Jordyn D.

Ooohhh...Ooohhh...

Verse: There's a fire in my heart that only true love can put out and I wish for this love again but I'm broke by you still...

Hook: You got me hooked on a love song that's all about you...

Verse: I once had freedom but then I lost my mind... Last time I can no longer get back, ooohhh...How I wish I could turn back time to the warning signs before lost my mind...

Hook: You got me hooked on a love song that's all about you...

Bridge: Oh how I wish I never met you, you turned my life upside down where I lost money, time and my mind. I can never forgive myself for being so foolish and dumb in love... Oh I wish I wouldn't have let my illness take control to commit a crime to lost it all. I should have went and took a bubble bath then gone to bed instead of letting you in my head.

Hook: You got me hooked on a love song that's all about you, ooohhh I have to let you go to heal my life from the damage I've done. Ooohhh...

This picture is a representation of a form of inspiration for me and I hope it can be the same for you. It inspires me to do well for myself. This photo is from Strouds Run State Park where we went for a hike on a trail that was new to me.

I hope this image would give someone life and be renewing for someone looking at it. In case you're down real low, it might give you hope and strength in order to pull yourself up out of a rut. There's a lot of life in there. Tap into your inner self so you're able to pull yourself out of a bad situation.

Worn work gloves and a lotus pod are two pretty different objects to juxtapose. The posh and the low-class. I grew up on a family farm and know the work a pair of worn work gloves represent. My family wanted the posh for me: "Fly away and don't come back to this place." I aimed high but came back to the farm. Then I broke just like the lotus pod. Their love was strong but mine was stronger. These pictures are about the broken yet powerful love between the high and the low.

—Matthew

This photograph was taken at the Ohio University Greenhouse. I am in love with the Athens Community through photographing different areas of this dynamic place. There is a lot of beauty packed into this small college town.

This class was exceptionally beneficial to me. The expression of the different perspectives was especially enjoyable. Sometimes increased happiness can lead to healing. It is that simple.

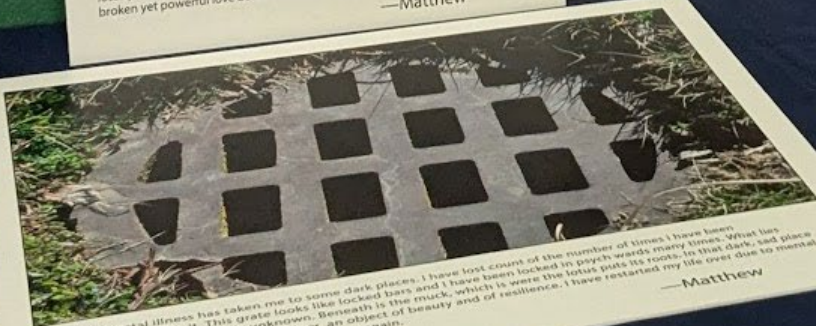

—Kathy

This photograph is of Lindsey Johnson who is the owner of Lindsey's Collectibles in The Plains. She was very sweet, how your grandma would be.

Being out in the community with a camera is interesting: no strange stares, just working in harmony with others. Some presented their areas of interest to us while others agreed pleasantly to be photographed.

—Kathy

My mental illness has taken me to some dark places. I have lost count of the number of times I have been hospitalized for it. This grate looks like locked bars and I have been locked in psych wards many times. What lies behind the bars is black, unknown. Beneath is the muck, which is where the lotus puts its roots: to that dark, sad place is the birthplace of the lotus flower, an object of beauty and of resilience. I have restarted my life over due to mental illness three times, and I know I can do it again.

—Matthew

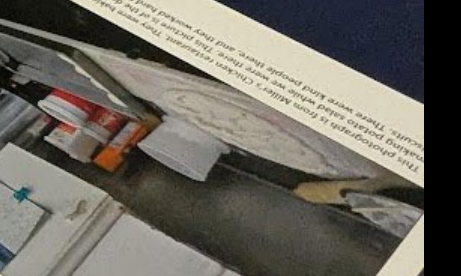

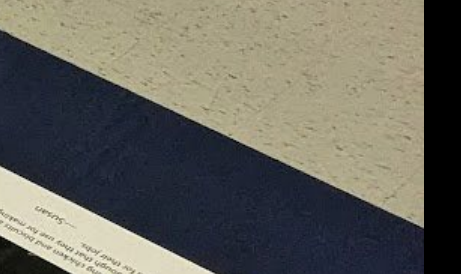

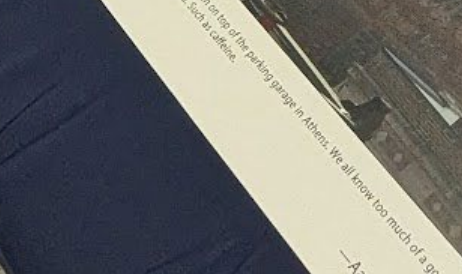

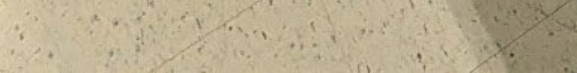

This symbolizes the growth of the mind over time. Time management is important to mental health. The branch growing through the years, the branch replaces the hands nicely.

—Michael

This photo was from my first time going on a trip to a greenhouse. We went on a cold rainy day before. They even had oranges and pineapples. This photo has a lot of color and has a lot of life.

The painter tries to master color, but color is constantly changing its nature, and the camera captures it in the blink of an eye.
This photo of Jordan and an overlay of a red maple leaf puts me into a multi-world of art with the camera like texture. I hope you sink into the layers as I did.

This photo may look like a flower and sun, but it's a mirror into my (maybe your) world and an origami sunflower. Origami is the art of folding paper into beautiful creations, where every fold tells a story.
