

Spring 2018 Workshops

New workshops for Libraries & Historical Collections

Preservation of Photographic Materials

choice of two dates and locations

$40 Wednesday May 9 10 AM–4 PM
Oklahoma History Center
 800 Nazih Zuhdi Drive, Oklahoma City

$40 Friday May 11 10 AM–4 PM
Museum Broken Arrow
 400 South Main Street, Broken Arrow

Photographs are some of the most common items found in archival and museum collections, but they are also some of the most complex. During this full day workshop, we will explore identification of photographic processes, storage, handling, display, and emergency response. You'll leave knowing more about the needs of your photographic collection and simple steps you can take to extend its life. • Lunch is own your own.

Preservation of Audiovisual Materials

Preservation of Textiles

Thursday May 10 Oklahoma Department of Libraries 200 NE 18 Street, Oklahoma City
$20 9 AM–NOON

Audiovisual materials are complex and not designed for long-term storage of information, making them particularly challenging for library, archive, and museum professionals. Join us for a half-day workshop where we discuss the audiovisual materials most commonly found in collections and how to care for them. Please note that this is not a digitization class—instead, it will give you the information you need to preserve your A/V materials until you are able to get them digitized.

$20 1 PM–4 PM

Do you have questions on how to store, handle and exhibit textiles? Join us for an informative half-day workshop where we will explore how to care for these popular artifacts that are found in most museum and archive collections. Topics will include deterioration mechanisms of textiles, rolled and folded storage, exhibition, and emergency response. After this workshop you will understand the needs of these delicate items and be able to improve how you care for your collection.

Instructor for all workshops is Rebecca Elder of Rebecca Elder Cultural Heritage Preservation.
