SUZANNE DONALDSON

DONALDSON CONSULTING, LLC

Suzanne Donaldson is CEO of Donaldson Consulting, LLC. Suzanne advises her public and private clients on managing their projects efficiently; implementing diversity, equity, and inclusion; providing business coaching for underutilized firms; and ensuring contracting compliance.

She is recognized in the construction and design community for creating a level playing field for underserved communities and businesses and collaborating with multiple stakeholders. She has consulted on public and private development projects worth over several billion dollars.

With outstanding organizational, implementation, and facilitation skills, Suzanne provides essential assistance to project managers in organizing details, documenting processes, and communicating status updates for major programs and projects.

Bringing outstanding relationships she has cultivated with community organizations and M/W/DBE firms for nearly two decades, Suzanne conveys these benefits to her clients through her project work.

Suzanne has a lifelong commitment to mentoring under-represented individuals and firms. She has helped public and private clients achieve their M/W/DBE participation goals and broaden their diversity and outreach programs to rave reviews.

As a proud member of the Cowlitz Indian Tribe, Suzanne is certified as a M/W/DBE in nine states and with the federal government. She uses the knowledge and expertise she's gained to help other firms expand their capacity and improve their service levels.

She also works as a cultural ambassador and facilitation consultant, engaging with community organizations, underrepresented populations, and community stakeholders. She helps build productive, authentic relationships to work toward a more inclusive community with opportunities for all.
