

FACING HISTORY & OURSELVES
UNITED KINGDOM

Facing History and Ourselves

Secondary English Teachers

On Tuesday 2nd September,
9.00-3pm

J. B. Priestley's An Inspector Calls remains as relevant today as when it was written in 1945: Priestley's focus on social responsibility and our interconnectedness as humans ("we are members of one body") feels particularly pertinent given current global events.

Join this one-day seminar to be guided through Facing History's Teaching An Inspector Calls unit, which takes students through our unique pedagogy. The unit begins by connecting students with their identity, their relationship to society, and thinking about the impact that these have on their behaviour.

Venue

Lyng Hall Secondary School,

Blackberry Lane,
CV2 3JS

For bookings and further information contact Lisa:

lhagan@lynghallschool.co.uk