

Do you work in or with a Family Hub? Do you have a role like this?

- 0-19 health professional
- Early help or social care
- Creche or play development worker
- Adult and family learning
- Family engagement worker
- Children's librarian

Sign up for one of our free seminars today

If your role is working with parents, or you support early years children in a Family Hub, then these workshops are just for you.

Written and delivered by our highly experienced Speech and Language Therapists especially for staff who work in or with Family Hubs, these workshops are packed full of up-to-date information and helpful practical strategies to support speech and language skills in the early years.

An introduction to speech, language and communication skills in the early years

Learn about the importance of speech, language and communication for learning and life, typical development in the early years, and how to support parents with key messages and quality interactions.

Speech and language challenges in the early years: identifying needs and supporting children and their families

Including how to spot speech and language challenges, useful identification tools and resources, how to help, and supporting parents with talking strategies at home.

Supporting and understanding the needs of children with complex speech and language challenges

An in-depth look at understanding the needs of children with social communication differences, creating communication supportive environments, and supporting parents with specific strategies in the home.

All three seminars run twice a month, every month (except August), throughout 2024.

Sign up now

