NAS - Contact & Working with Birth Parents

28th January 2025

Details:

Time: 10am-3pm

Location: Virtual

Member price: FREE

Non-member price: FREE

Trainers: Helen Hawksworth & Sarah Coldrick

This event is part of the ongoing dissemination and implementation of the NAS Good Practice Guides, and will examine the key principles of the Contact and Birth Parent Guides and implications for practice.

We will consider the recent Public Law Working Group report and recommendations, and think about the different legal stages of contact.

Practitioners will share experience of using the Contact Planning tool and risk assessments for contact, and of working with families to support everyone involved to maintain relationships that help a child understand their identity as an adopted person.

Audience

Children's social workers and managers, Adoption and Fostering social workers, Contact workers, CAFCASS, Panel members, IROs, Life Journey work practitioners, Reflect practitioners

Feedback

"Very informative. Room for discussion and questions. Very knowledgeable trainer".

"The trainer was very engaging and ensured everyone remained engaged throughout the session".

18th February 2025

Details:

Time: 10am-4pm

Location: Virtual

Member price: FREE

Non-member price: FREE

Trainer: Martina Wolter

In this workshop we will look at the challenges, benefits and worries around a child's transition from a residential placement into foster care. The aim is to help staff understand the children better in order to support them as best as possible, to make the transition as smooth as possible for all involved and to help the foster families create a therapeutic, sustainable placement.

Audience

Child Care Social Workers, Supervising Social Workers, Team Managers, Residential Workers

Feedback

"Today highlighted the significance of looking at the child's inner world and how this impacts upon decision making / identifying future placements moving away from focusing upon behaviours exhibited and factual information. This will not only be relevant to step down placements but also to placement moves in a general sense. The Circle of Understanding Model will be good tool to use in future."

Supporting Families Caring for Teenagers

3rd March 2025

Details:

Time: 10am-2pm

Location: Virtual

Member price: £86

Non-member price: £106

Trainer: Natalia Osborne

In the past decade, there has been a notable increase in teenagers entering Wales's care system. According to Family Justice Data Partnership, Adolescents aged 14-15 are the most likely to enter care - making up the largest proportion of new entrants each year. When matching to foster carers, teenagers are often overlooked in favour of younger children due to the misconception that caring for them is more challenging. Many of our most traumatised and vulnerable young people miss out on the opportunity of essential family support during a critical time in their lives. This workshop strongly emphasises the benefits of caring for teenagers, dispelling myths and offers effective solutions for families to provide the necessary care for adolescents.

Trainer: Alison Keith

This is an introductory 4-day training on Dyadic Developmental Psychotherapy, an intervention model for families with a child who has trauma-attachment problems, developed by Dan Hughes, Clinical Psychologist, USA. In this training, theory and research in the areas of developmental trauma, child development and attachment theory are integrated to produce a therapeutic approach and parenting model used for relationship development and trauma resolution. DDP recognises the vital role which adoptive parents and foster carers play as primary attachment figures in the recovery of traumatised, attachment-resistant children.

Upcoming Dates - 7th, 8th, 16th, 17th October 2025

Audience

Therapists and practitioners who have experience in working with children and young people with trauma-attachment problems and their foster, adoptive or birth families. Adoptive Parents & Foster Carers are welcome to attend with the understanding that the training focuses on how to provide services to children and their families.

Exploring bias, discrimination and becoming a culturally competent practitioner

8th April 2025

Details:

Time: 9:30am-3:30pm

Location: Virtual

Member price: £88

Non-member price: £106

Trainer: Natalia Osborne

Cultural competence involves acknowledging and respecting cultural differences in our attitudes, communication, and behaviours. As childcare professionals, regardless of our specific roles, we must continually strive to enhance our cultural competence in practice. To do this effectively, we need to examine our personal biases and understand the impact that discrimination can have on the children and communities we support. In this open course, you will have the opportunity to explore key concepts related to cultural competence and anti-oppressive practice, and then apply this knowledge to your work. The course will also include a discussion on how both personal and professional identities can influence the decisions we make in our roles.

Audience

Practitioners and social workers, regardless of their role.

(2-day course)

Details:

Time: 10am-4pm

Location: Virtual

Non-member/Member price:
£295+VAT per household

Trainer: Tracy Bowen

Fostering Services are under increasing pressure to provide parent and child fostering placements in order to provide the best possible chance to keep families together and avoid children, particularly babies from coming into care. They occur where parents have additional support needs that cannot be met in the community and where there may be significant concern about a parents ability to safely care for their child. Parent and Child placements can be hugely rewarding for foster carers particularly where carers support families to remain together in the community. However these arrangements can be complex and challenging and foster carers require additional training over and above that provided to mainstream foster cares to meet the specific demands of these placements. This 2-day training course will provide foster carers and fostering service professionals with a comprehensive introduction to the role of the parent and child foster carer, the tasks involved, and the skills and knowledge required to support this role.

Audience

Foster carers who are currently approved as parent and child carers, are new to the role or interested in exploring this option.

Trainer: Alison Keith

This 4-day course is open to those professionals who have undertaken the 4-day Dyadic Developmental Practice and Psychotherapy (DDP) Level One training. Dyadic Developmental Psychotherapy is an intervention model developed by Dan Hughes, Clinical Psychologist, USA. This approach helps social workers, clinical psychologists, therapists, and other practitioners to understand and effectively support children, young people and their families. In this model, theory and research in the areas of developmental trauma, child development and attachment theory are integrated to produce a ways of working that help with relationship development and trauma resolution. DDP recognises the vital role that adoptive parents, foster carers, residential workers and social workers play in the recovery of traumatised, attachment-resistant children.

Audience

Professionals who have undertaken the 4 day Dyadic Developmental Practice and Psychotherapy (DDP) Level One training and taken a 6 month gap between attending Level One and Level Two in order to have time to develop the skills that are taught.

Feedback

"Thank you so much for creating a 'brave space' and in the end what felt like a very safe space. This training has had and I think will continue to have more of an impact on me as a person/practitioner and my practice than most things I have done in recent years".

PACE (in the context of a wider therapeutic parenting/care approach)

1st July 2025

Details:

Time: 9:30am-4pm

Location: Virtual

Member price: £88

Non-member price: £106

Trainer: Martina Wolter

This workshop is developed to embed the theory of PACE in the therapeutic principle of 'Connection before Correction'. Learning will support participants to understand the need for 'PACE-ful' care and make it easier to adopt it.

Before the principles of PACE are introduced, we will spend some time reflecting on the specific situation of children and young people in care, as well as on the effects of their early trauma on their identity and their relationships with peers and adults. We will look at the reasons why these young people need adults who are actively and consistently offering an emotional connection. We will then look at how PACE can provide this connection and help the young people develop trust.

Audience

Practitioners supporting children and young people

Feedback

"Practical and theory was balanced with some very useful examples that linked with the work we are doing".
