LEGAL ADVICE YOU CAN TRUST

Postgraduate law students are selected and trained by qLegal, the award-winning pro bono law clinic at Queen Mary University of London. The students advise under the supervision of practising lawyers from leading City firms.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

You outline your needs. If we can help, we'll call you, and then book you in. You'll attend a 45 minute meeting (in central London or remotely) with two students and a supervising lawyer. Within three weeks from the meeting, you will receive your written legal advice.

WHAT'S THE CATCH?

There is none. Students hone their legal skills, supervising lawyers fulfill their commitment to pro bono support, and clients receive advice they would not be able to afford*. Everyone wins.

HOW DO I SIGN UP?

The free legal advice service runs from October to April. Submit your enquiry now via www.qlegal.qmul.ac.uk/contact
