

July 30th, 2024: White House Convening on Child Welfare Transformation

- Location: Join via WebEx information below.
- Date: Tuesday, July 30, 2024 – approx. 12:30pm – 4:30 pm ET
- Event: Hosted by the Domestic Policy Council, the convening will highlight Biden-Harris policy priorities that help families stay together safely with supports, and reshape foster care to best serve children.
- Format: A combination of remarks, “TED”-style talks, and moderated discussions among the speakers onsite. Note: There is not expected to be opportunity for live questions from the virtual audience.
- Focus: The convening will underscore accomplishments of the Biden Harris administration related to child welfare – prevention, kinship care, and foster care - and highlight new policy opportunities, innovations and best practices designed to improve the lives of families who may be at risk of involvement from child welfare systems.
- Discussions with policy-makers, impacted families and program leaders are expected to address:
- meeting family needs and preventing unnecessary involvement in the child welfare system;
 - the role of kin in ensuring children can remain safely with family and in their community;
 - partnerships, research and innovations key to creating system shifts that benefit families.
