USA's Energy Mix Is Pivotal To The Changing Energy Landscape

With Natural Gas continuing to play an important role in the global energy mix, expansion in the Gas and LNG markets continues, with LNG demand expected to increase 3.6% per year to 2035. USA, one of the leading global producers of Natural Gas, is expected to lead the list of the world's top LNG exporting regions by 2023. Increased gas demand has led to accelerated development of secure supply chains. For customers on the global market, this means access to an abundance of new, low cost and low carbon US Natural Gas.

Be a part of the USA Pavilion at Gastech 2021 and identify new export opportunities and markets for your products and services, explore global and regional business opportunities and find new potential investors.
