The (Careful and Kind) Patient Revolution – Institute for Healthcare Improvement (IHI)

Dec. 7, 2017 from 2-3 p.m. EST

Join a conversation with Dr. Victor Montori and Kerri Sparking on why health care providers need to learn from patients and the types of patients clinicians need to know better. Dr. Montori believes a more patient-driven shared decision-making process will help providers look up from strict protocols and guidelines to understand their patients' lives to minimize barriers to better health and not add to them.

Global Trigger Tool MHS Learnings from Initial Implementation – ECRI Institute

Dec. 21, 2017 from 1-2 p.m. EST

This year, the Military Health System introduced the Global Trigger Tool to augment existing patient safety improvement initiatives at military treatment facilities. Designed as a retrospective patient safety monitoring tool, the GTT can provide data to guide improvement efforts to eliminate patient harm and deliver safe, reliable care.

During this webinar, MHS health care professionals will learn to how to use their GTT data to measure, trend and prevent harm. Attendees will gain an understanding of their facilities' GTT Monthly Report data and charts, discover simple techniques to further display and learn from their GTT data, and explore strategies for using GTT findings with other patient safety data to identify opportunities for improvement. Attendees will also hear how MTFs of any size can use their data.

Speakers:

- Michael Datena, program analyst, DoD Patient Safety Program
- Sandra Almeida, MD, MPH, founder and president of Sandra A. Almeida, MD, LLC Healthcare Consulting; consultant to DoD Patient Safety Program
