

You're invited to the 2020 Indigenous Children, Youth, and Families Conference

Please join us for two days of inspiring content on
Aug. 11 and 12, 2020.

Credit: Terrance Paul, a Yakama Nation
Tribal Member and class of 2020 graduate from White Swan High School

The Washington Indigenous Children, Youth, and Families Conference will be an opportunity to come together and learn, with content focusing on Indigenous child and family wellbeing, Early Learning and the Indian Child Welfare Act. The event will be held virtually. Details around platform and information around session links will be shared before the event.

This year's agenda includes opportunities to hear from experts in the fields of secondary trauma and resilience; learning and culture; and disproportionality. There will also be sessions on home visiting, legal education, kinship resources and more that will offer opportunities to build professional skills.

We are working on offering STARS credit and CLEs for some sessions. Details will be included in conference materials.

Register by July 31 to secure your spot!
Click here for details.

If you are an employee at DCYF, this link will give you the information you need to register in Maestro.

If you are a caregiver, judicial personnel/legal, a Tribal partner or part of another audience, please create a profile on our website, then proceed with registration as a Caregiver.