Series description

Understanding how perinatal mental health (PMH) can impact caregivers in the transition from the NICU to home and community services can be daunting for providers supporting these families. The Hospital-to-Home Systems Change team is offering an ECHO series to explore various aspects of perinatal mental health for NICU families, gaining a more comprehensive understanding of the challenges, best practices, and strategies for this population.

Anyone working with infants and families during and following NICU stay

Cost - Free!

Funded through a Perinatal Mental Health Access and Capacity Building grant from the Washington State Department of Health, awarded to Northwest Center.
